Owners Balk At Mine Pact At Least Six Killed In Building Collapse

Four Others Are Trapped In Wreckage

Workmen Buried As Steel, Concrete Plunge To Basement

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—A four-story office building being constructed to withstand the shock of an atomic blast collapsed with a roar today, killing at least six workmen and injuring 15 others.

At least four other workmen were trapped beneath tons of steel and concrete which slammed through foot-thick floors into the basement.

Bulldozers and cranes, working in the glare of searchlights, burrowed into the wreckage tonight, removing huge chunks of rubble in an attempt to reach the trapped workers.

The 15 injured were taken to two Jackson hospitals, where two were reported in critical condition.

No Warning Of Tragedy

The insides of the building gave way without warning as a construction gang from the Herlihy Mid-Continent Co. of Chicago was pouring concrete on the fourth floor of the $2,800,000 structure. The building, its shell nearly completed, was to be the general offices for the Consumers Power Co.

Company officials said it was designed to be as nearly impregnable against atomic explosions as possible.

Consumers, a utility company which supplies gas and electricity to much of southern Michigan outside Detroit, has its headquarters in Jackson, about 65 miles southeast of Detroit.

Doctors Enter Wreckage

The fourth floor buckled and collapsed, sending masses of concrete and steel girders crashing through the lower floors to the basement. Workers, caught with little or no warning, fell with the debris or were trapped on the ground floor and the basement.

Civil Defense rescue teams sped to the scene soon after word of the tragedy reached Jackson, four miles south of the rural construction site. Doctors crawled into the wreckage to administer first aid to injured workmen.

State police and National Guardsmen also were dispatched to keep hundreds of spectators from crowding too close to the wrecked building.

Defense Rests In Brink's Case

BOSTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The $1,219,000 Brink's robbery trial probably will go to the jury Saturday morning—or possibly Friday night.

This became likely today when the defense rested in the middle of the ninth week of trial in Suffolk Superior Court. In six days the defense put in alibi testimony for all of the eight defendants but one—Henry Baker, 50.

The defense said it has a number of motions to submit, and arguments on these may take tomorrow morning. After that would come the defense's closing argument, the prosecution's, and finally Judge Felix Forte's charge.

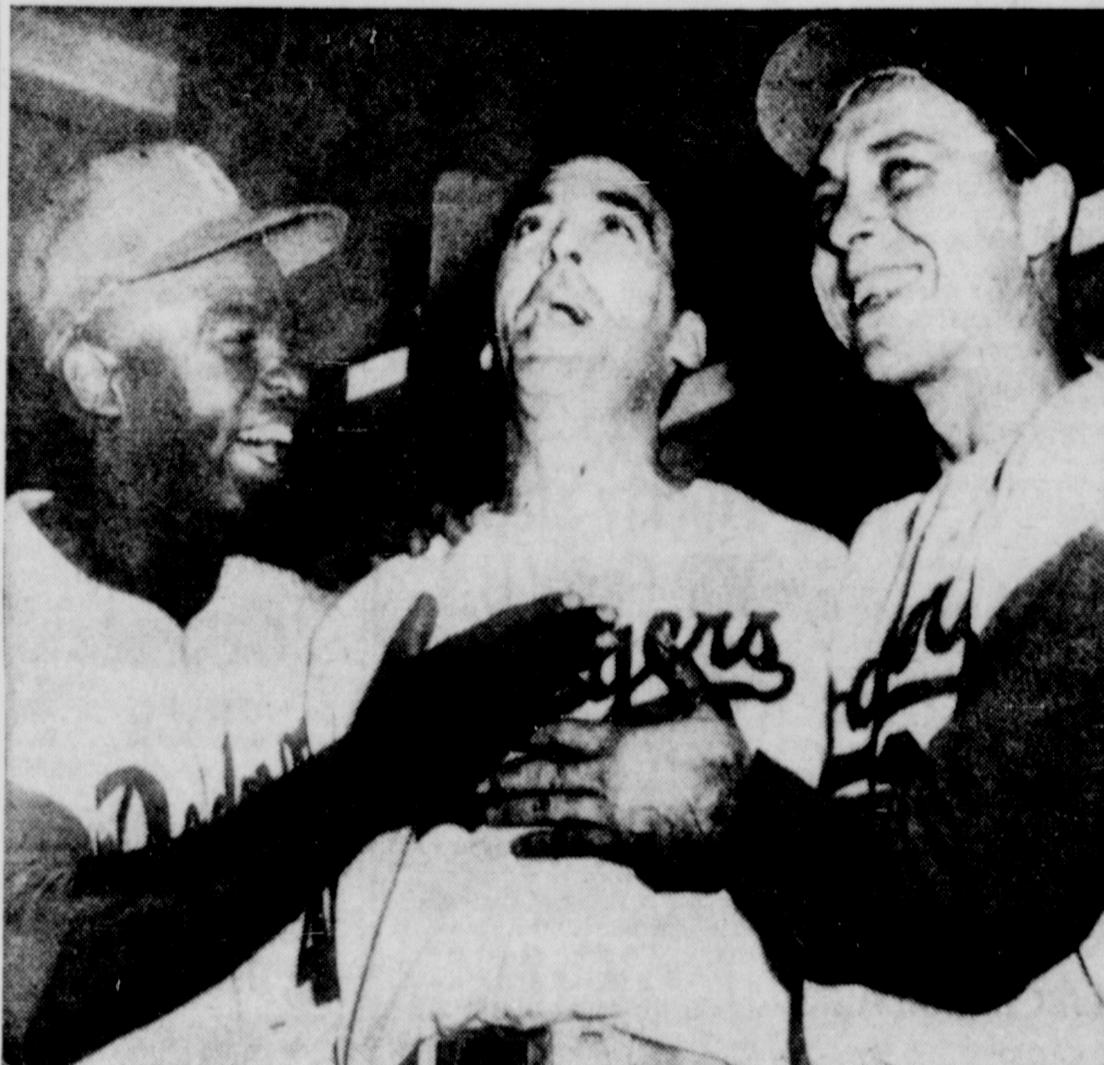

The last defense witness was Detective Lt. James V. Crowley, for 35 years a Boston policeman. Crowley testified that on the night of the robbery—Jan. 17, 1950—he talked about 10 minutes with the defendant Joseph F. McGinnis, 53, in the doorway of McGinnis' Egleston Square liquor store, beginning about 7:30 p.m.

McGinnis' store is over five miles from the robbery scene.

The robbery, according to previous witnesses, occurred about 7:10 p.m. However, the prosecution does not contend that McGinnis was at the scene.

Soviet Group Will Observe U.S. Election

Russia, Accepting Invitation, Agrees To Exchange Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Russia has accepted an invitation, personally approved by President Eisenhower, to send official observers to "view at first hand" the American political campaign and election.

State Department officials said today the Soviets also agreed to welcome American observers to their next big election, in 1958.

The Soviet government hasn't named the two or three persons it will send here, but they are expected to be medium rank officials.

The State Department proposed the exchange of election observers last Friday. The Soviet Foreign Ministry accepted Monday, officials said.

U. S. Pays Expenses

Similar invitations also went to four of Russia's European satellites—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Romania.

Acceptances by the satellites are expected to follow the Russian move.

The observers will come here as part of the State Department's cultural exchange program, with their expenses being paid by the U.S. government.

U.S. officials who helped arrange the project said when it was announced that the invitations were not "any publicity gimmick" but stemmed from an earnest desire to show American democracy in action.

Keds To Tour Country

They described the proposal as part of an Eisenhower administration drive to "regain the initiative" in promoting cultural contacts between East and West.

The Communist representatives will tour the country, attending political rallies and hearing campaign speeches, before they observe the actual balloting on Nov. 6.

It was suggested they arrive in this country about Oct. 21 and remain about three weeks.

Officials said they did not know just when the Russian delegation will arrive.

Polish Riots Factor

Unofficial sources say Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev seems determined to continue a policy of apparent liberalization inaugurated last February at the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party. Yugoslav sources express belief Khrushchev changed his mind on de-Stalinization under influence of some members of his ruling party.

Prisidium and the army following the Poznan riot in Poland. The riots could have repercussions in other Eastern European Communist countries.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles' statement yesterday that there are no reasons to suppose Tito's trip represents a change in the general line of his policies toward East Europe is believed here to be based on information the U.S. secretary obtained from Yugoslavia.

Yugoslavians' Terms

Diplomatic circles here speculate that Khrushchev's surprise visit to Yugoslavia was designed to explain to Tito why de-Stalinization was to be slowed down.

Yugoslavia is said to seek:

Complete independence of satellite Communist parties from the Moscow party headquarters.

Equal rights for the Communist parties.

Nonadherence to any "socialist camp" which may have the appearance of a bloc.

O'Malley introduced him to Walter Alston, the Brooklyn manager, and Casey Stengel, Yankee manager. Then players of both teams lined up to shake hands with the President.

"It was one of the best—it was real fine."

The Republican President drew a cheering welcome as he drew into the park, in the center of traditionally Democratic Brooklyn.

Nixon Blasts Adlai's Suggestion Hydrogen Tests Be Abandoned

"Catastrophic Nonsense," Says Vice President

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3 (AP) — Vice President Nixon blasted as "catastrophic nonsense" today Adlai Stevenson's suggestion that hydrogen bomb tests be abandoned.

"This is one of the most extraordinary, appalling statements in the history of American political campaigning," Nixon said in a speech prepared for delivery here tonight.

The reference was to Stevenson's speech yesterday at Teaneck, N.J., in which the Democratic presidential nominee challenged President Eisenhower to take the lead in a move to ban H-bomb tests and suggested that Russia is willing to go along.

Nixon's address here, the last on a 32-state campaign swing that started 16 days ago, was billed in advance as a major foreign policy statement and a reply to the Stevenson speech.

The vice president accused Stevenson of making statements that are "terribly damaging to America's interests abroad" and of providing "grist for the propaganda mills of those" who favor Communism.

"Where he disagrees with a policy," Nixon said, "Mr. Stevenson has a right and an obligation to criticize it and then to point out what he would do. But when he resorts to shotgun attacks on the policies of a President who is a symbol of peace throughout the world, he hurts America abroad and he does not help himself at home."

"Mr. Stevenson's memory is as short as his sense of understanding on this extremely grave issue of our survival in a world menaced by Communist imperialism. Supremacy in nuclear weapons and the more conventional military weapons, including trained manpower, are our major defenses against the powerful Soviet military threat."

While it is possible to tell when the Russians explode an H-bomb, Nixon said, "there is no machinery that can inform us what research is taking place preparatory to such an explosion, or the exact nature of the device that was used. What Mr. Stevenson forgets is that it takes many months to prepare for one of these tests."

Survey Indicates:

Farm Popularity Decline Suffered By Eisenhower

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3 (AP) — An agricultural research firm reported tonight a nationwide survey of farm families indicates a major decline in popularity for President Eisenhower but that he has suffered a "significant loss" in farm popularity since 1952.

The mid-September survey indicates that 56.6 per cent of the farmers questioned intend to vote for Eisenhower, 34.4 per cent for Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate, and that 9 per cent are undecided or do not intend to vote, the company said.

Doane Agricultural Service Inc., which conducted the poll through its countrywide Farm Panel, said Eisenhower will receive 21.2 per cent fewer farm votes than he did four years ago.

"The net decline in Eisenhower's farm popularity came about through defection of 27 per cent of his 1952 supporters which was partially offset by a gain of 5 per cent of voters who backed Stevenson."

McKeldin Sees Speed Curbs Put On Autos

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin said today he believes it may become necessary for states to require manufacturers to limit the speed at which the average car can be operated.

"Highway accidents in Maryland are killing people by the car-loads," McKeldin said, "and radical steps may be necessary to combat such radical destruction."

The governor made his remarks at the dinner meeting of an Essex-Middle River service organization.

"While I am not indicting you for all the violations of our traffic laws," he said, "the evidence is mounting that the high speed man has a particular grip on young drivers."

"And the evidence is becoming overwhelming that speed is the great killer. Somehow we must slow them down," he said.

McKeldin said, "If the manufacturers will not reduce the speed at which their cars can be operated, the states will have to do it by law."

steel industry and other coal producers in Pittsburgh and return here with an answer for Lewis that will enable or disallow signing of a new agreement.

Previously, Lewis hailed the agreement as a continuation of six years of labor peace in the industry and successful negotiation of contracts without government interference.

The agreement with BCOA covers approximately 150,000 of the nation's 200,000 soft coal miners and usually sets the pattern for wage contracts with other operators.

The contract calls for a two-step actual wage increase amounting to $2.00 a day—$1.20 immediately and another 80 cents next April 1. That would bring the basic pay of miners up to $22.25 a day.

Lewis, 76, who has headed the miners' union for 36 years, told his organization's convention that, "This contract encompasses all that the industry can pay at this time. There isn't any more. If there was you would have gotten it."

"I further predict that the American people will not be taken in," he went on. "They will know this trick for what it is."

Estes Predicts GOP "Desperation" Move

SANTA FE, N.M., Oct. 3 (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver predicted today the Eisenhower administration "may abandon its tight money policy a few days or weeks before the election."

That would be a "desperation" move because "the Republicans have now become alarmed at their prospects in the coming election," the Democratic vice-presidential nominee said in a statement.

"I further predict that the American people will not be taken in," he went on. "They will know this trick for what it is."

Child Regarded As U.S. Citizen Russia-Bound

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — A Russian refugee and his little American-born daughter sailed on the Queen Mary today for the Soviet Union, despite a hide-and-seek pursuit by U.S. immigration men.

Authorities said the father, Alexis Chwastow, 58, may have been coerced into returning to Russia by Soviet officials here. His 92-year-old mother was said to be still in Russia.

Immigration officials were especially concerned over the fate of Chwastow's daughter, Tanya, 2½. Born in Philadelphia, she is regarded as an American citizen by birth.

The officials threatened for a time to hold up the liner's departure until the Chwastows were located. But the Queen Mary left her Hudson River berth on schedule.

However, the searchers rode as far as quarantine with the ship before they gave up the hunt and returned to New York.

Aboard the liner also was Fedor Solomatin, chief counsel to the Russian Embassy in Washington. He protested to immigration officials:

"In accordance with our law, the child is a Soviet citizen. If it's a case of dual citizenship, that should be decided by the courts and not by any last-minute action by the American government to come to the pier and attempt to take this child away."

However, Roland Elliott, director of the immigration service of the Church World Service, told reporters he feared Chwastow left under "intimidation."

The officials threatened for a time to hold up the liner's departure until the Chwastows were located. But the Queen Mary left her Hudson River berth on schedule.

Under a ruling of the Federal Maritime Board, the ships will be chartered to American Coal Shipping Inc., formed three months ago by the United Mine Workers, three coal-hauling railroads and seven coal mining companies.

The new company expects to be shipping about 50 million tons of coal annually to Europe when its operations get in full swing.

Established steamship lines opposed the chartering of the vessels, but the Maritime Board ruled that transportation of American coal in American flag vessels is "required in the public interest."

It held that privately owned vessels are not available to the new 50 million dollar corporation at reasonable rates and under reasonable conditions, and therefore it is proper for the government to provide the ships.

"And the evidence is becoming overwhelming that speed is the great killer. Somehow we must slow them down," he said.

McKeldin said, "If the manufacturers will not reduce the speed at which their cars can be operated, the states will have to do it by law."

Maryland Crop Damage Caused By Storm Flossy

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—Storm Flossy caused some crop damage in Maryland last week, flooding some areas in the tobacco belt and blowing down corn, the Maryland - Delaware Crop Reporting Service said today.

High winds accompanied by rain blew over corn in many fields and interrupted harvest on the Delmarva Peninsula and in Southern Maryland, the report said.

The storm also delayed harvest of other crops and hampered soil preparation for small grains and cover crops.

Flood loss, the crop survey said, was confined mainly to the southern portions of the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland.

The soybean harvest will not be general for about two more weeks. On the shore the harvesting activity is focused on sweet potatoes with half the crop dug at the end of last week.

Psychologist Named In Farmer's Seizure

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 3 (AP)—A psychologist was charged today in connection with the seizing of a Mennonite farmer in the Maugansville area several weeks ago.

Eight Mennonite men and a nurse also are charged in the case.

Released on $500 bond today on a charge of conspiracy to assault was Jacob Goering, a psychologist at Brookland Hospital, a mental institution in Washington County operated by the Mennonite religious sect.

County authorities said Adin E. Hege, a Maugansville area farmer, was seized on his farm, given an injection that put him to sleep and was taken to Philhaven Hospital in Lebanon, Pa. He was returned to Hagerstown by sheriff's deputies and examined by two doctors who said they found no reason to confine him.

Authorities said there were indications a church dispute was involved.

State's Atty. Omer T. Taylor said the defendants may waive a grand jury hearing and come up for trial soon.

Robbers Prefer Mink; $200,000 Theft Probed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Thieves with a preference for mink got an estimated $200,000 worth of expensive furs today after carefully picking their way through an alarm system at a Baltimore shop.

Capt. George H. Mintiens said it was the largest fur robbery in Baltimore history.

Detectives were checking with police in Washington where a store was robbed of $150,000 in furs last month. There, burglars also went through walls and took only mink.

In making today's haul at Jandel Furs on North Charles Street the thieves passed up sable and chinchilla.

David Silverman, one of the owners, said 160 different pieces were taken including coats, stoles and capes.

Jandel has a shop in Washington and a plant in New York.

Silverman said 30 coats of various lengths and valued up to $5,500 each were among the items taken.

Left on racks were furs with price tags marked $1,800 and $1,900.

The burglars smashed the lock off a steel door, hammered through two walls and worked their way through an elaborate alarm system to get at the loot.

Authorities said there were indications a church dispute was involved.

State's Atty. Omer T. Taylor said the defendants may waive a grand jury hearing and come up for trial soon.

Beall Joins GOP "Truth Squad"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.), chairman of the Republican campaign committee for Maryland, will join the Republican "truth squad" tomorrow for a five-state tour, campaign headquarters announced today.

The group will follow presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson "to present the GOP side of issues mentioned by the Democratic candidate in his speeches," the announcement said.

Traveling by plane, the Republicans will visit West Virginia, New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Besides Beall, they will include Sen. Martin (Iowa), and Reps. Jackson (Calif.), Morano (Conn.), and Prouty (Vt.).

McKeldin was co-author of the bill in the last session of Congress. He was presented the award by Paul E. Burke of Baltimore, director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

The council cited Fallon for adding to traffic safety by helping to provide for better highways under the new program. The presentation was made at the fifth annual Commissioners' and Governors' Conference on metropolitan Washington traffic problems.

Council officials said it was the first such award, but others are being planned annually.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Rep. Fallon (D-Md.) was presented an award today by the Metropolitan Washington Traffic Council for his contribution to the recently enacted multi-billion dollar highway bill.

Fallon was co-author of the bill in the last session of Congress. He was presented the award by Paul E. Burke of Baltimore, director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

"The length of the lever—and thus the power which it exerts on the fulcrum at the seat of government—depends on the extent to which the people participate in our political procedures," he said.

McKeldin said "it is important that we have a big vote—a clear expression of the popular will."

Gov. McKeldin Calls For Record Vote In Maryland

FREDERICK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today urged Marylanders to do their part in producing a record vote at next month's general election as a "demonstration to the world that popular government is not waning."

McKeldin made his remarks at a luncheon meeting of a Frederick service club.

The governor said politics "is the lever that keeps control of government in the hands of the people."

"The length of the lever—and thus the power which it exerts on the fulcrum at the seat of government—depends on the extent to which the people participate in our political procedures," he said.

Oklahoma In Doubtful Column; Both Parties Running Scared

Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles by AP's veteran political reporters who are surveying sentiment in key states across the country.

By ARTHUR EDSON

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 3 (AP)—What happens to Oklahoma's eight electoral votes may hinge on something as simple as this: Whether contented housewives or discontented farmers have the most influence at the polls.

Republicans think Dwight D. Eisenhower again can carry this normally Democratic state—it's gone Republican in a presidential election only three times—by picking up majorities in Oklahoma City and Tulsa. And they especially count on him to win the women's vote.

Democrats think Adlai E. Stevenson, who got 45.4 per cent of the vote four years ago, can come home a winner by picking up strength in the farm areas that are hit hard by drought.

So if any farmer down here starts to count his blessings, the Democrats quickly tell him what sorry shape he is in.

Right now, you'd have to put Oklahoma down as doubtful with both sides running scared.

On the Democratic side, you hear this from Sen. Mike Monroney who, since he is running for re-election, has been all over the state.

"The Oklahoma farmer who will vote for Eisenhower is pointed to as a curiosity."

Monroney picks Stevenson to win by a margin of 80,000 votes, a modest enough claim, by political standards, in a state that four years ago cast 948,984 ballots.

But Monroney is worrying over the results of a private poll, taken at a fair in Muskogee, Stevenson won by 283-240, which hardly is sensational since this is Democratic territory. But what disturbed Democrats was a breakdown of the Republican strength. Of the 24 who voted for Eisenhower, 170 were women.

Walter E. Curry, Republican state chairman, says he figures Eisenhower to win by 35,000 to 50,000, quite a markdown from the 87,000 margin he had in 1956.

Curry is sure Eisenhower again will do well in Oklahoma City, won four years ago by 25,000 votes, and in Tulsa, where he had a 27,000-vote margin.

Curry's worry is over a big let-down from the excitement of 1952. He figures as many as 100,000 who voted in 1952 won't go to the polls on Nov. 6.

"Down here," he said, "the more votes we get out, the better it will be for Eisenhower."

One thing that could aid the Republicans:

A contested primary election, between two Democrats at Wagoner, has produced charges that absentee ballots were used loosely and that campaign workers were paid with state relief checks.

It has been a red hot story here, constantly on the front pages.

Since it involves a state election, it is hard to say how much it will hurt Stevenson. But Douglas McKeever, who is running against Monroney, has stressed what he calls "The Wagoner vote scandal" in his speeches. And a

Democrat conceded, "it certainly isn't going to help us any."

Another question no one seems to be able to answer: How will the Negro vote?

Roscoe Dunjee, a Negro leader who edits "The Black Dispatch," estimates 50,000 Negroes are registered Democrats and another 30,000 are Republicans.

Public school integration in Oklahoma has gone ahead steadily, with scarcely even a minor disturbance. "Our governor, our attorney general have been absolutely fair," Dunjee said.

But he said as a Negro he's discouraged by the Democratic outlook nationally, largely because, he said, of the Southern Democrats who head important congressional committees.

Dunjee said that is why he is shifting his support from Stevenson to Eisenhower.

"I'm telling everyone to vote Democratic in the state and Republican nationally," he said. "But he isn't sure how many are likely to follow his advice.

You'll get some idea of how close the Oklahoma race is from this poll of Capitol reporters for the state's four largest newspapers:

Otis Sullivant of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman has been observing the robust, often rowdy politics in this state for more than 25 years. He thinks the Democrats are better organized than they were four years ago and should have a slight edge as any.

But Hugh Hall of the Oklahoma City Times and Ned Curran of the Tulsa Tribune think Eisenhower is in front, while Phil Dessauer of the Tulsa World says:

"It's a tossup. This state is still to be won."

All four papers supported Eisenhower in 1952.

But let's drift out into the state and see what some of the voters are saying.

In Collinsville, a town of 2,500 northeast of Tulsa, a lively street corner discussion was in progress, involving weather and politics.

This cattle country. Are the farmers doing okay?

"No, sir," said Ben Longan, a retired livestock man, "they'll starve to death. Beef isn't worth nothing on the hoof, but it's worth three times as much after it's been processed. I'm an old straight line Democrat myself."

But isn't dry weather, not politics, the real villain?

"Well, now, the Democrats are going to be fair about this," Longan said, with a wink. "They're not going to mention the drought."

One thing that could aid the Republicans:

A contested primary election, between two Democrats at Wagoner, has produced charges that absentee ballots were used loosely and that campaign workers were paid with state relief checks.

It has been a red hot story here, constantly on the front pages.

Since it involves a state election, it is hard to say how much it will hurt Stevenson. But Douglas McKeever, who is running against Monroney, has stressed what he calls "The Wagoner vote scandal" in his speeches. And a

Roy Cyphert, a retired contractor, said he didn't vote four years ago, but Eisenhower will be his man this time. "I can't go for Adlai Stevenson. Anyway, the farmers are in better shape than they've ever been."

"And do you know why?" asked O. L. Farmer, 51 years in the mercantile business before he, too, retired. "It's because half of them are working in some plant to make a living." Farmer is staying with Stevenson.

Down the street, in a jewelry store, Mrs. E. B. Colclasure was asked about the women's vote, so hard to assess because they don't seem as eager to talk politics as the man.

"I've heard some women say about Eisenhower, 'Boy, he's for me. I don't want my son going off to war,'" Mrs. Colclasure said. "I can understand that. I have a son myself. I voted for Adlai, and I will again."

At the barber shop, Flem Castleberry, who listens as well as talks to his customers, said: "A lot of them seem to think old Adlai is going to make it, especially the farmer and the stockman."

Castleberry didn't vote four years ago, but he will be for Stevenson in the polling booth. "Old Ike has made a pretty good president," he said. "But what I can't understand is why they pick on the poor old farmers and the renters. They've had it worse than anybody."

Now west to the flat country, to Okarche (pop. 500) and F. W. Wiedey's insurance office. Wiedey is sticking with Eisenhower — "I can't see anything wrong with old Ike." But a couple of his farmer customers weren't so sure.

A. J. Mendel, who voted for Eisenhower four years ago, doesn't know what he will do on Election Day. "I don't think we got anything out of the deal," he said.

Although most Germans in this area are Republicans, Herman Dannheil is a Democrat who voted for Eisenhower in '52. And this year? "I don't know. I couldn't vote for Stevenson, but, well, things are rough on us little farmers."

Dannehl said he only farms 320 acres.

Is that little? he was asked.

"It is here," he said.

Now south to El Reno, where wheat still is the major crop, but where cotton, corn and alfalfa also are raised. The wheat was good, the other crops poor.

In the ladies' ready-to-wear store Mrs. Warren de Moss was saying why she likes Eisenhower. "He's such a genuine person. I don't think there's anything false about him."

Is that why women like him?

"I'm sure that appeals more to the women than to the men. I get the feeling he's as honest as he can be."

On the outskirts of town, at the implement store, E. Hill (the uses only one initial) was saying he's from the southern part of the state which is strongly Democratic, that he ventured over to Eisenhower in 1952, but will return to the Democratic fold this year.

Hill said plenty of farmers say they are changing their vote to the Democrats. But he recalled how one allotment proposal was roundly cussed by all the farmers, how it passed by 4-1, and then:

"If you asked the first 20 farmers who came into this place how they voted, they'd all swear they were against it."

Hill looked thoughtful, and then in a sentence explained why politicians of both parties are nervous about Nov. 6.

"You just can't tell," Hill said, "about farmers."

15,000 Will Retire, Get Higher Annuities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission estimates that about 15,000 federal employees will retire at the end of this month under the higher annuities authorized by Congress earlier this year. This total would be about five times the normal average monthly retirements of about 3,000.

The commission said total requirements for the first year under the increased benefits may reach 62,000.

It estimated the retirement pay of the 62,000 based on an average of $2,040 annually will total about $126,480,000 yearly.

Before passage of the new law the commission figured the average annuity was about $1,620 annually.

By states where they are employed, the commission estimated the number of persons who would retire during the next 12 months as follows:

District of Columbia 6,579.

Maryland 1,383.

Tennessee 1,097.

Virginia 1,991.

West Virginia 310.

Ike And Adlai Send Messages To GIs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson last night sent election year messages to U.S. servicemen around the world.

Eisenhower's message was comparatively brief. It told the soldiers, sailors and airmen that it was up to them to decide "on how your influence is to be felt in the government of your country, community or nation."

Stevenson's longer message was aimed more directly with the presidential campaign. The Democratic presidential nominee urged the armed forces overseas to be mailed between Oct. 15 and Dec. 1 from haunting the earth.

that the servicemen compare the Nov. 15, the Defense Department records of the Democratic and Republican parties on veterans affairs.

He said the Republican record "does not measure up to our obligations" but the Democratic record "does measure up."

The Eisenhower and Stevenson messages were filmed and taped far in advance, for use over the radio and television stations of the armed forces.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Look To The Little Things

One thing you'll always notice about a woman you think is particularly charming—she has an air of quiet but definite self-confidence about her. There must always be self-confidence behind true charm. No one who isn't on good terms with herself can reach out beyond self to be a delight to others.

Self-confidence is a sum total of many things, but nothing builds it more solidly than learning to do things well. Try to do everything you do better and see what it does for you. The little things and the big things, but make a start with the little things you do every day.

Chores half done in any way short of the mark have no effect at all or bring on an uneasy feeling.

But the lift you get from small jobs well done is an inspiration, often an inspiration to tackle bigger ones; and somewhere along the line, you'll find more than one thing you have talent for and in which you can excel. No, it isn't necessary to be the best at what you do, but to set high standards and maintain them is a must for justifiably confident personality.

Some of the little things you do every day are part of your work at a career or at home, and others are more personal. Greater care with your skin, your hair, your clothes, your diet, and posture will do far more than win others' increasing approval of how you look. That is important and gratifying, but it's also important that it, too, brings you a higher opinion of yourself.

Tomorrow — Erase dowager's bump.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (INS) — An estimated one gallon out of every four gallons of booze consumed in this area during the World Series — and everywhere else in the country — will be bootleg stuff. The distillers of the grog will pay no federal, state or city taxes. They gyped these agencies out of about $6,000,000 in taxes from 1946 until last year. They're doing better than ever this year.

Bootlegging has returned to this country in a big way chiefly because the government and other tax-collecting agencies have gone hog wild taxing the legitimate producers. The whisky business is considered fair game by every aspiring politician. He knows that there will be more boosts than knocks if he claps another levy on Demon Rum even though D.R. is as legitimate in this country as the minstrel or Pabulum.

If Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth announced this week that commencing with the 1957 models their $2,000 numbers would cost $7,750, because taxation on automobiles was brought up to the level of taxation on spirits, the howl of protest would shatter plate glass windows on Madagascars. Yet that is the comparative situation that exists.

It costs about $2 to make, store and age a gallon of whisky. The federal tax on each gallon is $10.50. State and city taxes bring it to $13.56. In 1941 the federal tax was $4 a gallon. It went to $6 in 1942 and to $9 in 1943. Congress that year promised that the $3 hike would be removed six months after the end of hostilities.

Sportsmen Seek Halt Of Hunting Ban

Representatives of the Western Maryland Wildlife Association, representing sportsmen's clubs in Allegany and Garrett counties, have joined with other such organizations throughout the state in initiating moves to stop the Federal Government from depriving sportsmen of the use of some 10,000 acres of premium hunting grounds.

The sportsmen are being aided in their action by the State Game and Inland Fish Commission.

The land in question is a 58½-mile stretch from Hancock to Cumberland, running parallel to the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal which the National Park Service is planning to develop as a national park. The proposed plan, it was pointed out, will have the Park Service taking over all the land lying between the canal and the Hancock-Cumberland Parkway.

The section of the park project takes in, spokesmen of the wildlife association pointed out, includes what is considered the best all-around hunting land in central and western Maryland. It also includes about the only accessible duck hunting area in this region, as well as some of the best wild turkey and deer hunting grounds in the state.

Should the entire strip be taken over by the Federal Government, hunters would lose the privilege.

Driver Uninjured In Truck Crash

An area trucker escaped injury Monday when his truck struck a bridge abutment on Route 51 near Uniontown, Pa.

Police said Jacob Lease, RD 5, Cumberland, was traveling from Pittsburgh to Cumberland when the accident occurred. The truck, loaded with fruit produce, rolled over on the highway, spreading the fruit over the road.

Lease drives for the M. Dusic Wholesale Company of this city.

Contract Extended

SANTIAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—The government has extended the contract of a team of U.S. economic experts credited with checking Chile's inflation with monetary and stabilization recommendations. The Klein-Sacks mission, due to leave in December, will stay until next June to study government reorganization.

Stevenson To Speak At Elkins Today

Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president, will speak at the Mountain State Forest Festival today at 1:30 p. m. on conservation and reforestation.

Stevenson will be in a 15-car special train and will arrive in Elkins at 11 a. m. over the Belington Branch, track jointly operated by the B&O Railroad and Western Maryland Railway.

The train will arrive in Grafton at 5:05 a. m. from Connellsville and will remain there until 5:30 a. m. It will arrive in Belington at 9:15 a. m.

Luncheon Planned

A motorcade will meet the special train at Davis Avenue in Elkins and take the Stevenson party through the city.

The forest festival organization will honor him at a luncheon at the Elkins Country Club before he returns to the Randolph County seat to speak on conservation and reforestation.

Mrs. Alma Morgan, Mrs. Carl Kisner, C. P. Henry and W. P. Crabtree, all of this city, attended the anniversary celebration.

Woodard Receives Birthday Surprise

Claude R. Woodard, assistant supervisor of assessments in Allegany County was feted at the Court House Tuesday with a surprise party on the occasion of his 78th birthday.

Fellow Court House employees gave him a number of gifts and all who attended the party received ice cream and cake.

Leaders In Party

While Western Maryland Railway officials have not been notified, Thomas-sub-division of the Elkins Division would be the shortest route for the train to Cumberland and the B&O main line.

Boarding the train at Belington and conferring with Stevenson will be West Virginia Democratic leaders—U. S. Senators Matthew M. Neely of Grafton; and William R. Laird II of Fayetteville; Gov. William C. Marland, Democratic nominee for the Senate; Congressman Robert H. Mollohan of Fairmont, candidate for governor of West Virginia, and Arthur Burke Koontz, Charleston, Democratic national committeeman from West Virginia.

Elkins will be crowded today as thousands of area residents go there to see Stevenson and the crowning of Sally Alexander of Parkersburg as Queen Sylvia XX.

Quality Group Plans Meeting Today

Cumberland Section, American Society for Quality Control, will meet today at 8 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club and will give recognition of statistical quality control as a key tool in today's scientific management of industry.

W. A. O'Brien, chairman, said plant executives of four of the area's major industries will participate in a panel to discuss

"What Management Expects From Quality Control." They are W. N. Hedrick, Celanese Corporation of America; J. C. Warden, Kelly Springfield Tire Company; B. H. Little, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory; and W. D. McVicker, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. B. B. Lucas of Celanese, will be moderator for the discussion which will include a question and answer series.

The program has been planned to outline for quality control and production personnel objectives desired by top management, according to O'Brien. An opportunity is also afforded individuals from other industries to hear first-hand various uses for control techniques.

A pre-meeting dinner will be held at 6:30 p. m. Visitors are welcome at both the dinner and program, O'Brien said.

Look Who's Talking About Suez Blame

Premier Mollet of France, bitter because there has been no forcible crackdown on President Nasser of Egypt in the Suez Canal crisis, has been publicly implying that the United States is to blame. British, French, and American unity, he says, is needed to keep Nasser from becoming a "smaller" Hitler. British and French solidarity, according to Mollet, is "complete." He didn't say who he thought the culprit was. He didn't have to.

But look who's talking! Mollet's Foreign Minister Christian Pineau has been outspoken and often bitter in his criticism of the United States. Early last March, after he had been in office only a short time, Pineau delivered a caustic attack on the United States for not responding to the Russian embrace. Mollet expressed similar views.

Franco-American relations have been less friendly ever since Mollet became premier; and one reason for that has been the tendency of the Mollet government to engage in public recriminations instead of respecting differing views and trying to produce unity by the methods of friendly persuasion.

The United States has given France considerable moral support in the Algerian crisis. France, while preaching unity, pulled divisions out of NATO for North Africa without prior consultation with her allies. In recent weeks the French press, reflecting the private and public attitude of French officials, has been making intolerant attacks on the United States.

When M. Mollet says that Western unity is essential, he is talking like a realist. But the attitude of the present government of France hasn't helped to achieve it.

The Supreme Court

I came across a startling sentence in a very interesting article on "Judicial Self-Restraint," by John P. Roche of Haverford College, which read:

"...since the intention of the framers is essentially irrelevant except to antiquarians and polemists, it is unnecessary to examine further the matter of origins."

This is not taken out of context, for the following sentence is: "The fact is that the United States Supreme Court, and the inferior federal courts under the oversight of the high court, have enormous policymaking functions."

What all this amounts to is that the Supreme Court, in fact, all the federal courts are daily making policy by judicial decisions and when to them are added the burgeoning administrative agencies of the federal government, the intent of the framers of the Constitution that legislation should be the function of Congress is being violated. The explanation that an unsatisfactory decision of the Supreme Court can be rectified by a constitutional amendment gives little encouragement to those who fear encroachment by the court.

Federal judges do enter upon political policy-making decisions which can cause damage and which do not reflect public opinion, as federal judges are appointed by the President for life or good behavior and in no manner need to reflect or pay attention to public opinion. Some of the recent decisions of federal judges in immigration, passport and Communist cases are neither good law nor do they reflect public opinion, but they follow a pattern of liberalizing the law and of lessening the effectiveness of administrative procedures which, it would seem from the Constitution, are functions of Congress and not of the courts. In the passport cases, the courts have assumed an authority over the executive which it was never intended that they should have.

If the Congress rejects public opinion, the voter can, at elections, change his representation in Congress, but the citizen has no means of expressing opposition to a judge; nay, he may even be held in contempt of court for questioning the omniscience of one who wears the robe, even if he knows in detail how the judge came to be appointed and that his qualifications as a lawyer and a judge were not even considered, but that all that mattered was political expediency. I personally witnessed such maneuvers in the 1952 Republican convention, as I suppose dozens of other persons did.

In the 1956 campaign, the principal issue was made not by the President, a political official, not by the Congress, elected representatives of the people, but by the Supreme Court. That issue is segregation and what the candidates of both parties proclaim is that everybody must abide by the decision of the court. In a word, they, the candidates, are ducking the issue entirely and are hiding beneath the black robes of judicial fiat.

That that leads to rioting, to boycotts, to the disturbed lives of young people, to dissent and dissatisfaction makes no difference to the judges. They have spoken. Perhaps, from the standpoint of the law, they have spoken correctly. Perhaps, from the standpoint of morals, they have spoken correctly. But from the standpoint of the political situation, these judges have taken a political action, broader than the law far beyond the demands of public opinion, and they have created a political plateau upon which the candidates for public office must walk.

This is not the first time in American history that this has happened. The Dred Scott decision, as much as any other political act, brought on the War Between the States, and Franklin D. Roosevelt's attempt to pack the court in order to protect New Deal legislation could have destroyed his party. There have been other instances of the political effects of the court's political decisions when it was never the intention of the framers that the court should have any political characteristics. It was precisely to keep politics out of the court that the judges were appointed for life and not elected for a term.

In this 1956 election, the candidates have to balance the sentiments of Southern whites against the sentiments of Northern Negroes; they have to calculate which states will be won or lost over this issue; they have to take into consideration the unorganized, independent vote that may altogether upset all calculations. The issue, raised by a Supreme Court decision, has become a nightmare to them.

Democrats, Others Distort 'Joe Smith' Episode

By David Lawrence

the deception which it patently was.

Instead, today the Democratic campaigners, including Adlai Stevenson, have latched on to the "Joe Smith" episode because they think it somehow embarrasses the Republicans. The Democrats have tried to put over the far-fetched and false idea that anyone with the name of Joe Smith couldn't be placed in nomination at a Republican convention.

Dr. A. Powell Davies, Unitarian minister here, had Adlai Stevenson in his congregation last Sunday and used the occasion not to expose the fraud and trickery involved in the so-called joke about "Joe Smith" but to glorify that individual in the role of the "forgotten man," as the Democratic campaigners did in New Deal days.

Analogous To Filibuster
The "Joe Smith" gag is supposed to be funny. Yet it is grimly analogous to the kind of parliamentary tactic — based on false premises — which is used in the filibusters in the Senate when, by a ruse, a minority of one gets the floor, talks on imaginary and irrelevant issues and blocks the will of other senators who want to vote on a pending question.

For what really happened at the Republican National Convention has never been put in its true light by the Democratic campaigners. A delegate wanted to get the floor to make a nomination for vice president. He favored a certain candidate who had written a letter to the chairman asking that his name not be presented. When the chairman of the convention asked the delegate the name of the man he did want to nominate, the answer came: "Joe Smith."

It was a trick by a delegate in a meeting operating under parliamentary rules — to get the floor. It was a device to fool the chairman and the convention. It was a phony stunt. It should be denounced from every pulpit as paean oratory" has sunk to a low level. But a minister of the gospel, without involving himself in personalities, can appeal for truth in campaigning.

There are many ministers in America who preach sermons about truth and sincerity and who manage to do it without seeming to take part in political campaigns. There are some, to be sure, who are obviously political or partisan, and their listeners are well aware of it.

But Dr. Davies, who undertook to preach a sermon about a phase of today's political controversy — the "Joe Smith" episode at the Republican National Convention — made it appear that the "common man" is being neglected. On the stump this would be forgiven as partisan

These were some of the embarrassing facts which would have been revealed had not the Justice Department intervened.

Official excuse for the Justice Department's intervention was that the FBI had taken over.

Justice Department officials admitted that any FBI report until after November 6 was highly unlikely.

The stock shot up 14.5 points, and a lot of people made a killing.

Behind the killing are some very embarrassing facts, so embarrassing that Attorney General Brownell doesn't want them investigated — except by his own agents. One is the fact that but in a pulpit it sounds like a mockery of all the welfare programs of the modern state in recent years.

Dr. Davies spoke of "Joe Smith" as having been regarded sometimes as "a statistic" or "consumer" and said that Joe Smith "feels, sometimes strongly, sometimes in mild bewilderment, that he is being left out — or that he is being too much taken in."

Not In Standardized Category

The minister might better have told of the many Joe Smiths who have risen from poverty and humble surroundings in free America to make the grade. He could have pointed to several persons eminent in American life — in the churches, in the press, in the colleges, in the world of business and labor leadership — who have risen to fame with the name, Joe Smith. He could have pointed to the Joe Smiths who have laid down their lives for their country in World War I, in World War II and in the Korean War. There is no reason to classify all the Joe Smiths as having the same outlook on life or attitude toward public questions — as the politicians like to picture them — in a standardized category of citizens because they have the same name.

What the American people would like in this season to hear on Sundays from the teachers of truth is something that the parishioners can take to heart on all days of the week — something that proclaims how the Christian ethic and philosophy is violated nowadays by the politicians who sacrifice principle and truth just to get elected. There might even have been a scriptural quotation cited as advice to present-day candidates: "What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Straws show which way the wind blows but you get too much information from a haystack in a tornado.

Is there any bright student in a paper hat who remembers when Generalissimo Chiang-chek proclaimed he would invade the mainland in eight years.

The leaves in the gypsy tea room have boiled over many times but the generalissimo has yet to make a movissimo.

The eight years have elapsed and Chiang is still monarch of all the Formosas. He's been on an island so long his kimono won't hold a crease.

Thanks to Franklin Delano's

foreign policy all Chiang's relatives have nice jobs in the engine rooms of paper dragons, second class.

Chiang still has all his mandarin buttons but he's run out of thread. He was going better than a downhill goat until the Republicans copped the duke in 1952.

That cancelled Chiang's subscription for trading stamps on the super-market at Fort Knox.

The eight years are up and the immovable Joss smiles his lacquered grin on sugar and cream side of the peac orchard. When you're sitting pretty why get in a jam in the aisles?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

force recruit training base. This number of fatalities is relatively small considering that 240,000 young men passed through the base during the interval covered by the survey.

Two-thirds of all the deaths were sudden and violent; 18 of these were not due to natural causes. There were nine auto accidents. Falls, asphyxiation, suicide, and accidental gunshot wounds accounted for the remainder.

One of the two suicides was a recruit with a psychiatric problem; he had made no previous attempt before entering service.

Meningitis accounted for six deaths and there were two apiece from peritonitis. Bright's disease, and pneumonia. Heart trouble, regional ileitis, encephalitis, and ulcerative colitis caused one death each.

These conditions are in contrast to those of a generation ago when typhoid, tuberculosis, and pneumonia were rife and led to more deaths in army camps than on the battlefield. The 11 remaining fatalities were sudden and unexpected and due to natural causes. The majority died within four hours after developing stroke or overwhelming infection. Only one died of a heart attack.

Attorney General Cancels Probe Of Airline's Stock Market Leak

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Securities and Exchange Commission was quietly and efficiently investigating the scandal surrounding the purchase of Northeast Airlines stock when suddenly a phone call from the Justice Department.

Attorney General Brownell, SEC officials were informed, wanted the SEC investigation called off. SEC Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong obediently bowed. The probe was canceled.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, established by law under Roosevelt to prevent stock-market manipulation, is a quasi-judicial agency. It is supposed to act independently of the executive branch of government. It is not supposed to take orders. It was so established in order to prevent any stock-market tampering such as influenced the disastrous Wall Street crash of the Hoover administration.

Despite this, Chairman Armstrong called off his probe just as his agents started to question some of the 40 or so people who bought Northeast Airlines stock after it was awarded the lush route between New York and Miami, but before that award was announced.

The stock shot up 14.5 points, and a lot of people made a killing.

Behind the killing are some very embarrassing facts, so embarrassing that Attorney General Brownell doesn't want them investigated — except by his own agents. One is the fact that Justice Department insiders indicate that Attorney General Brownell may have a dual motive in appointing Richardson to the federal bench in St. Louis: 1.—Recognition of a prominent Negro who would help with the Negro vote; 2.—A slap at senior Judge George Moore.

Judge Moore, who has served for two decades on the federal bench, has resented some of the Justice Department's tactics and hasn't hesitated to ride Brownell hard. Judge Moore also has his own ideas about Negro judges on the federal bench. Justice Department officials don't believe he would relish a Negro judge on his court.

"NOTE — Two other Negro judges serve on federal courts: Judge Irving C. Molison, on the U. S. Customs Court; and Judge Herman E. Moore, in the Virgin Islands.

White House Mailing

The White House isn't missing a trick when it comes to campaign strategy. Even direct-mail techniques are being used on White House stationery. Here is the latest:

In order to induce local organizations to campaign for the GOP, a special White House letter has been printed with the President's name at the bottom in a facsimile that looks as if he had signed it himself.

Printed on White House rag paper of excellent quality, the form letter reads:

"During the campaign of 1956 the record of the Republican party must be taken over every city in America. In this work I appreciate the help of:

Then follows one and a half inches of blank space, so local GOP leaders can fill in the names of local GOP organizations. The form letter then continues:

"Only when all voters are fully informed of the facts and issues can we look forward with confidence to victory in November."

Signed, "Dwight Eisenhower."

The White House has ordered several thousand of these printed for use around the country.

The Women's Vote

GOP leaders are banking heavily on the women's vote to re-elect the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

For the first time in history more women than men are expected to go to the polls. Over 53,000,000 women are now eligible to vote compared with only 50,600,000 men, and private polls show that women favor Ike.

They like his smile and they credit him with ending the Korean War.

However, the Democrats also have an issue that may win some women's votes — high living costs. Women do most of the shopping, and the Bureau of Labor statistics shows that prices have shot up under the Republicans to the highest peak in history.

Moorefield Club Plans Festival For Halloween

Lions To Sponsor Annual Parade

MOOREFIELD — The Moorefield Lions Club will sponsor the annual Hallowe'en parade and festival again this year, according to William Clark, president. At the club meeting held at Hotel McNeill Monday night, Clark said the committees and the date would be announced later.

S. L. Dodd received a vote of thanks for his work on the industrial brochure which he has prepared for publication for the Moorefield Club. Dodd has been gathering data for the past year and the booklet will be used to help induce industries to locate in Moorefield.

The civic group accepted 150 books of tickets to dispose of from the Moorefield Band Boosters club in order to assist the band in the purchase of new uniforms. Members of the group also agreed to sponsor the purchase of school lunch tickets for several needy children in the schools at Moorefield.

Most of the business session was devoted to a discussion of the closing of the Moorefield Plywood Corporation. Moorefield business and professional men endorsed a note for a loan from the bank for $20,000 of which $18,000 remains unpaid. The note was secured by a second lien on the real estate of the corporation but in the event of liquidation or bankruptcy considerable time will elapse before the loan can be repaid. A committee from the Lions Club will confer with the board of directors at the bank to request an extension of the loan or some workable agreement.

Lions Given Data On Fire Prevention

LONACONING — Cromwell Zembower, past president of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association and the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association, stated that "fire is of utmost importance to the survival of the human race, depending upon the use it is put by mankind" at the Lonaconing Lions Club dinner program Monday evening.

He related the statistics of destruction that occurred in the United States last year. He gave a demonstration of dust dangers with fire. Jack Getty and John Meyers were in charge of the program.

George Dashiells, Baltimore, who is an honorary member, and the Rev. Charles Reckley, new minister of the Grace Methodist Church, Midland, were guests. Raymond Bampton and Raymond Brey had Rev. Reckley as their guest.

Boyd Bolyard, president, asked members to cooperate with the light bulb sale committee to make final distribution to the public.

The ladies night will be held at the Good Will Volunteer Firemen's armory on Monday, November 5, to celebrate the Lions 25th anniversary.

Piedmont Gets Proposal For Old Town Hall

Council Ponders Several Problems

PIEDMONT — A local business firm would be willing to buy the ground the City Building, "Piedmont Opera House" is situated on according to Kingsley Skidmore, city councilman.

Skidmore told the City Council at their regular meeting with Councilman Joseph Maybury, presiding, that the party would erect a two-story building. The first floor would be used for a store room and the second as apartments.

The party does not want the responsibility of razing the building. No action on the offer was made by the council.

Arnold Childers, representative of the Rish Equipment Company of Clarksburg, conferred with the council on the purchase of a compressor unit.

Councilman Maybury stated the motor of the town's compressor is in good shape. Childers stated he would have their mechanic, Richard Carskadan of Romney, examine the town's compressor to determine whether it would be better to buy parts and repair it or purchase a new one.

Childers stated he would furnish the town with estimates.

Councilman James Bissett stated he had conferred with a rat exterminator who for $650 would use his product along the Potomac River from about the vicinity of Piedmont High School to the town's garbage dump below town. This work would take about a 60-day period. He would also do the same type of work at homes for a fee for those desiring it. No action was taken on the proposal.

Kenneth Clark, a member of the street department was granted a week's vacation.

Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr. and Charles Hardegan Jr., were granted permits to build three houses; a one and one-half story Cape Cod house on East Hampshire Street at a cost of $11,000; two houses on Erin Street to be either Cape Cod or Ranch Style at a cost of $11,000 each.

The problem of providing sewage for them was discussed.

It would run from the vicinity of the James Stewart's residence down over the hill to East Hampshire Street.

This will create a financial problem for the town. Just what size pipe and the length of it has not been determined.

Maybury told the council it will be a project for them to consider.

Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, reported that $108.16 was collected from parking meters last week.

Moorman narrowly missed being elected as the candidate in the primary election this spring, being defeated by less than 20 votes. The death of W. D. McCauley created the vacancy on the ballot.

The Hardy County Court indicated they would also appoint Moorman to fill out the unexpired term until January 1.

Moorman will be unopposed in the election.

Beall Students Launch School Fund Campaign

FROSTBURG — The pupils of Beall Elementary School are participating in a drive to sell subscriptions to magazines by arrangement with the Curtis Circulation Company. The money realized from the sale of these magazines will be used to purchase needed equipment for the school such as library books, record players, duplicating machine, visual aids, etc.

The boy or girl who brings in the most money during the drive will receive a radio, watch, or record player. The second high salesman will receive a camera. A Parker pencil will be given to the high salesmen in grades 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7. Daily prizes will be given to the three high salesmen.

The high salesmen on Monday were Carol Knepp, James Goebel, and Gregg Taylor.

Twice during the contest a mystery box will be opened and a name drawn. If that person has sold a magazine he will receive a prize.

Faculty members in charge of the drive are Miss Catherine Goldsworthy, Thomas Richardson, Miss Virginia Neff, and Mrs. Dorothy Beall.

Moorefield Man Made Prosecutor

MOOREFIELD — Lewis S. Moorman, Moorefield attorney, was appointed by the Hardy County Democratic Executive Committee Saturday as the Democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney of Hardy County in the general election November 6.

Moorman narrowly missed being elected as the candidate in the primary election this spring, being defeated by less than 20 votes. The death of W. D. McCauley created the vacancy on the ballot.

The Hardy County Court indicated they would also appoint Moorman to fill out the unexpired term until January 1.

Moorman will be unopposed in the election.

Mt. Savage Teachers To Visit Playhouse

MT. SAVAGE — The faculty of Mt. Savage School will hold a theater party at the Mountain Playhouse in Jennerstown, Pa., Friday evening. The play "Born Yesterday" will be presented.

After the performance a "snack" will be held at "The Dairy Snack Bar," Somerset.

Arrangements have been made by the Social Committee of the school under the chairmanship of Mrs. Bernice Kohout.

PTA Will Convene

MT. SAVAGE — The Parent-Teacher Association of Mt. Savage School will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. Robert Jones, a member of the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College, will be guest speaker. The general theme of the meeting will be "Get Acquainted Night" and each parent and teacher is urged to attend.

Livestock Events To Be Held Despite Jackson's Mill Fire

JACKSON'S MILL — Despite the destruction by fire of the livestock barns at the State 4-H Camp here last week, several livestock events scheduled for this fall will be held here as originally planned, according to J. O. Knapp, director of the Agricultural Extension Service, West Virginia University. These events will include the Angus Cattle Sale, Thursday, October 18; the Hereford Cattle Show and Sale, Thursday, October 25, and the STATE 4-H and FFA Baby Beef and Fat Lamb Show and Sale, October 30-November 1.

Cattle will be housed in the Exhibition Pavilion and a tent will be used for the shows and sales, Director Knapp explained.

However, the Central West Virginia Feeder Calf Sales, scheduled for today and October 11, will be held at the Weston Livestock Auction instead of at Jackson's Mill.

After the performance a "snack" will be held at "The Dairy Snack Bar," Somerset.

Arrangements have been made by the Social Committee of the school under the chairmanship of Mrs. Bernice Kohout.

Reception To Honor Bruce Principal

WESTERNPORT — A reception honoring Kenneth Sheetz, the new principal of Bruce High School, Mrs. Sheetz and the new members of the faculty of the school will be held Monday at 8 p. m.

The affair is being sponsored by the Alumni Association of the school. Entertainment will be presented and refreshments will be served.

Dodgers Cop Series Opener As Maglie Beats Yanks, 6-3

34,479 See
Sal Whiff
10 Yankees

President Eisenhower
Is Spectator; Hodges
Hits 3-Run Homer

By JACK HAND
BROOKLYN, Oct. 3 (AP)—Ancient Sal Maglie, culled from the scrap heap to pitch Brooklyn to a pennant, finally won a world series game at the age of 39 today, striking out 10 New York Yankees for a 6-3 opening victory with the aid of homers by Gil Hodges and Jackie Robinson.

While President Eisenhower and members of his Cabinet watched from a box near the Dodger dugout, Sal came through in the clutches. Although nicked for nine hits, the crafty curve ball artist from Niagara Falls, N. Y., had his strikeout pitch when it was needed.

Huge Crowd Cheers
As the crowd of 34,479 stood and cheered while the President left, waving to the stands, the name of Maglie still was on the lips of all. It was a remarkable sight for those who remembered the years when Maglie, the New York Giants' "Barber," was the most hated man in Brooklyn.

All through the sunny, cool afternoon the Dodger bullpen toiled diligently. First it was Don Besent, then Clem Labine and finally both of them in the seventh, eighth and ninth. Although Manager Walter Alston twice visited the mound to confer with Maglie, who had thrown a no-hitter at the Phillies Sept. 25, he stuck with Sal.

Maglie's greatest day started on a shocking note. Mickey Mantle slugged a two-run homer over the right field wall in the first inning. Except for another homer by Billy Martin in the fourth, Maglie shut out the favored American League champions.

Gets McDougald 3 Times

Three times he threw the third strike past Gil McDougald, the Yankee shortstop, and he fanned two of Manager Casey Stengel's pinch hitters, George Wilson and Joe Collins.

To end the game with a flourish, Maglie made Mantle hit into a double play that brought the Dodgers rushing to the hill to pump his hand and slap him on the back.

Sal has been sharper with his curve and his fast one had had more smoke but never did it mean more. This was his first series success.

Ebbets Field, known as the graveyard of left-handed pitchers because of its handy left field stands, turned out to be just that to Whitey Ford, the top earned run pitcher in the American League and Yankee 19-game winner.

Ford was clipped for five of the Brooklyn runs and six hits, including Robinson's solo homer and a three-run blast by Hodges, before he retired for a pinch hitter in the fourth.

Holding a shiny 2-0 lead on Mantle's homer following the first of three singles by Enos Slaughter, Ford permitted the Dodgers to tie the score in the second. Robinson's home run, a 360-foot blow into the lower left field seats, broke the ice. Hodges' single and a double by Carl Furillo evened the score at 2-2.

Holder Means Ball Game

With one out in the third, Pee Wee Reese, who has played in every game of the seven Dodger-Yank series, beat out an infield single to McDougald, Duke Snider followed with a single into short center. Stengel came out to confer with Ford but left him in to pitch to Robinson, who flied to Mangle.

Then came Hodges to stroke the blow that meant the ball game. On a 1-1 count, the Dodger first baseman homered into the lower left field stands for three big runs.

Brooklyn's final run came in the fourth of Johnny Kucks, the slender right-hander who replaced Ford. Roy Campanella doubled to the far corner in right center and scored on Sandy Amoros' single to center.

Maglie skirted disaster in the eighth inning. Never was it a sure thing that he was going to last.

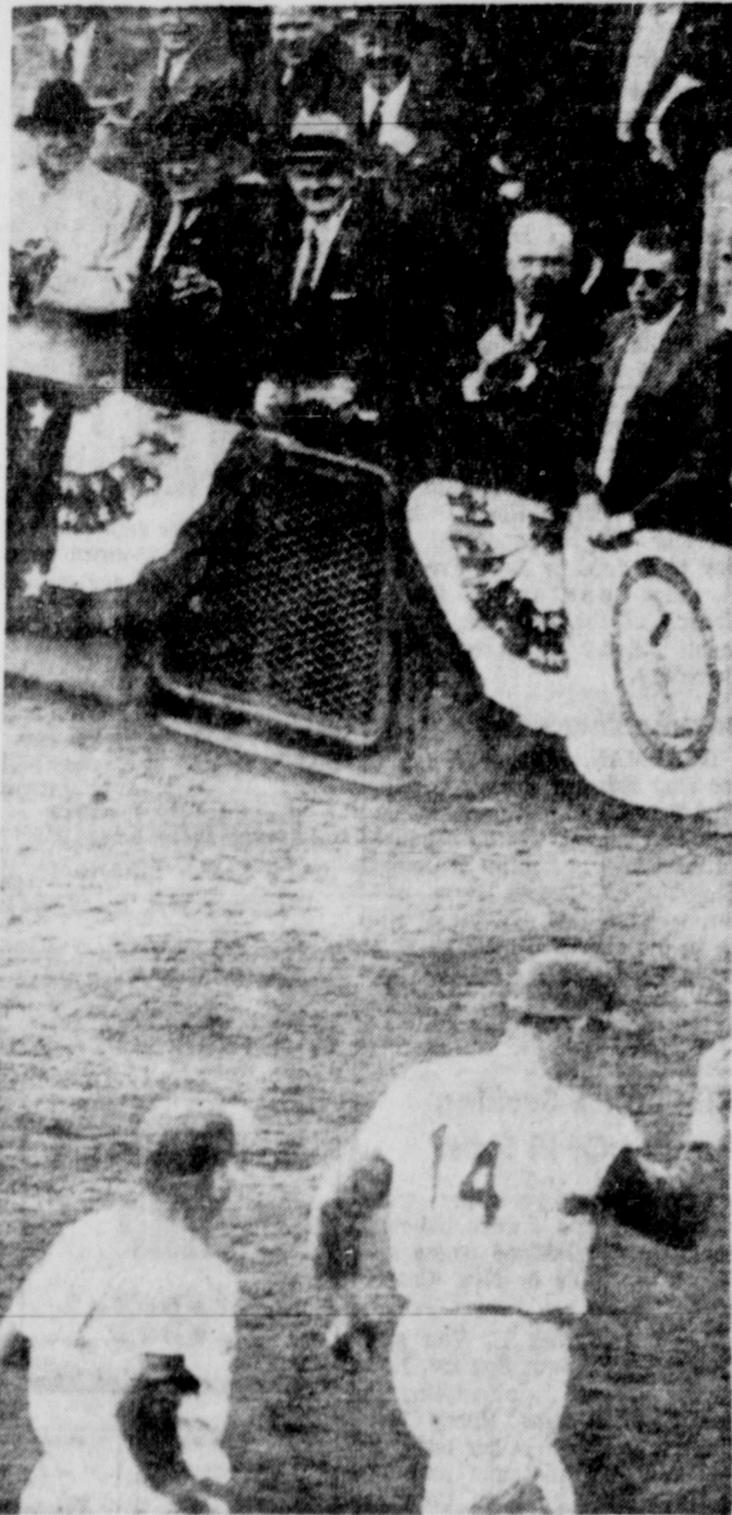

The Yanks had men on first and second with nobody out in the third but Maglie threw a third called strike past Mantle, made Yogi Berra pop up and escaped as Bill Skowron bounced into a force play.

Again in the fifth a single by Hank Bauer and a walk to Mantle put men on first and second with one out. Both Berra and Skowron flied to Amoros. Singles by Andy Carey and pinch-hitter Bob Cervi put two on in the sixth after two out but Bauer popped to Hodges to end it.

A walk to Mantle in the seventh, another pass to Martin in the eighth and Slaughter's third single in the ninth accounted for the other Yank runners.

CCC Fall Golf Title At Stake This Sunday

Catherman To Meet "Stony" Jackson

Veteran C. S. "Bill" Catherman Jr., and newcomer Orville "Stony" Jackson will clash in the 36-hole finals of the Cumberland Country Club's 35th championship flight fall golf tournament Sunday. The match will get underway at 10:30 a. m.

Jackson, soccer and basketball coach at Flintstone High School, never has won a spring or fall golf tournament here. He's a newcomer in the golf ranks but has made rapid strides in the short time he has played on the local course. He advanced to this year's finals with a 2 and 1 decision over the defending champion, Clifton Van Roby.

Catherman has won the fall tournament eight times—more than any member of the club. He will be shooting for his ninth title this year. Bill won his first fall crown in 1937.

In addition the veteran Catherman has won more golf titles at the CCC than any other member of the club, with a total of 10. His eight fall tournament wins in 1937, 1938, 1939, 1941, 1942, 1948, 1952, and 1954, are expanded by victories in the spring handicap tournaments in 1935 and 1938.

Catherman gained this year's final round with a 4 and 3 triumph over George Petras.

Closest to Catherman in the number of wins is the local club is Dr. Karl P. Heintz, winner of the club's first spring and fall championship in 1920. Dr. Heintz has won eight championships—five spring and three fall titles from 1920 through 1935. He still participates in the tournaments there.

Mont To Put Emphasis On Terp Defense

Hopes To Stop Baylor Saturday

By GEORGE BOWEN

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 4 (AP)—Coach Tommy Mont, feeling like a guy who picked up a basket of prize apples and found it had no bottom, will put Maryland's emphasis on defense against Baylor's rangy football crew Saturday.

The intersectional contest finds Mont getting up in the morning and looking in the mirror to see if I'm sick." Injuries and illness among his squad have been phenomenal.

Early this week, virus knocked out four of his topflight players.

Another had been eliminated by yellow jaundice for the season.

On top of that, Jack Healy, who caught the winning touchdown pass in Maryland's 6-0 victory over Wake Forest last Saturday, sprained an ankle in the game and it is very doubtful if he will play against Baylor.

Another halfback, John McVicker, was knocked out of action in the first game.

The halfback shortage became so acute that Fred Hamilton, starting fullback against Wake Forest, will be moved over to right. This will put the fullback burden on Tom Setzer, who has been limping every now and then because of a knee operated on last year.

Bob Rusevlyna, who had been shifting between left half and second string quarterback, will be used primarily at halfback. Mont rates the sophomore the best defensive half on the squad.

"We're making the backfield changes to make allowances for a great Baylor passing offense," said Mont.

"Because of the constant switching, we can't elaborate on our attack, but I think we'll be pretty strong defensively. We can't expect to fool anybody on offense this week."

Maryland has given up 561 yards rushing and 158 passing in its two games. Mont says the main reason for the almost unheard of weak rushing defense at Maryland is because the halfbacks haven't been coming up fast enough to make the tackles.

Baylor comes up with victories over California and Texas Tech for a rating of 16th in the Associated Press poll.

In contrast to Maryland's wholesale injuries, the Texans are at full strength for the first time this season.

SIGNAL PROBLEM - - -

By Alan Maver Series Notes

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower gave both the Yanks and Dodgers a handshake right down the line when he was introduced to the players before the first World Series game today... but the only ones who received the special treatment—a pat on the shoulder—were New York's Mickey Mantle and Brooklyn's Roy Campanella... even the umpires got a handshake from the chief executive.

Ancient Sal Maglie was at his best in the Brooks' 6-3 triumph... that is to say his control was uncanny... that, more than any other factor, kept the Yanks on their heels... from behind home plate, it was apparent that he was giving the Yanks little to hit... inside, outside, high, low, nothing down the middle.

Before the game, Brooklyn Manager Walt Alston was talking to newsmen and was asked what he thought of Casey Stengel, the Yankee manager... "He not only is a good manager and a funny guy, but a real good fellow, too," was Alston's appraisal.

The Brooklyn team as a whole was more annoyed at Mickey Mantle than any other Yank... The Mick, in a sudden burst of oratory the other day, said he thought Brooklyn would be easier to beat than Milwaukee... "Guess we'll have to change his mind for him," scowled Duke Snider... "Maybe he thinks we haven't got the hander to stop them," was Pee Wee Reese's observation.

"They've got to beat us on the field, not on paper," cautioned Jackie Robinson... "Aw, shucks," said happy-go-lucky Roy Campanella... "This is a democracy, isn't it? Let the guy have his opinion."

So far it's been an old man's series... Maglie wins the first game for Brooklyn and the Yanks' Enos Slaughter gets three of the hits of the Barber... Slaughter was playing organized baseball in the Bi-State League in 1935 before Brooklyn pitcher Sandy Koufax was born.

You can't say Yank starter Whitey Ford didn't make progress... the last time he got into a series game in Ebbets Field, he lasted one inning.

Plate Umpire Babe Pirelli isn't a suspicious fellow and he didn't exactly accuse Maglie of throwing spitters, but he kept examining the ball as though he suspected a time bomb inside it... Mantle made two fine throws, but they went for naught... the runners didn't try to advance either time.

Prices of key stocks were up 1 to around 5 points. Gains were scored in all major divisions of the list, with the greatest strength in the metals, motors, rubbers and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $2 to $176.70. That's its best level since Sept. 24. The bidding:

1 heart      Pass      3 hearts      Pass
4 hearts      Pass      Pass      Pass

Opening lead: Jack of clubs.

The holdup play usually identified with no trump contracts may frequently be employed to good effect at a suit make. In today's hand, refusal by declarer to win the first trick was an absolute essential to success.

The bidding was of the straightforward manner which we admire. North gave a full description of his values all at one time. The jump raise describes a holding with four good trumps and a point count value of 13 to 16. This permits declarer to know at a glance whether or not there exists a chance for slam.

West opened the jack of clubs, and declarer played the queen from dummy. East covered and declarer, without deliberation, took the trick with the ace. A little reflection by South before playing to the trick might have made it clear that such action placed him in a dangerous position, for he was now subjected to the possible loss of three diamonds and a club if spades failed to break.

After trumps were drawn, declarer tried the spades, but West showed out on the third round and no discard was available. There was no way to saddle East with the lead, and when the ace of diamonds was found to be unfavorably located, the contract went on the rocks.

Refusal to win the first trick would render it impossible for West to obtain the lead by means of a club. With West out of the lead, the king of diamonds would not be subject to immediate attack, and declarer might be able to project an end play against East.

Upon winning the club return, declarer trumps and then tries to run the spades. When they fail to break, East, who is known to have the thirteenth spade, is given the trick, South discarding a diamond. As far as this trick alone is concerned, declarer merely breaks even, but the profit results from the fact that East and not West now has the lead. If he leads a club, declarer sheds another diamond; if he leads a diamond, dummy's king becomes established for the tenth trick.

Knowland Flays 'New America'

Urges Allegany Countians To Back 'Tried Leadership' Of Eisenhower

Senator William F. Knowland last night urged the people of Western Maryland to unite under the tried leadership of President Eisenhower.

President Eisenhower, he said, seeks constantly to increase the living standards of the people based on the constitutional and economic system "rather than a New America with Stevenson, Kefauver and Reuther drawing the designs and tinkering with the machinery."

He called upon Stevenson to be specific about his "New America," saying 168 million people will not give him a blind endorsement.

"This is not new, it's tarnished goods," Knowland said asking if the reshaping of America will be in the pattern of the New Deal, which he said raised the national debt from 26 to 267 billions between 1933 and 1953.

Overflow Crowd

In his address before some 300 persons attending a Republican rally in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Senator Knowland said there is only one party of treason in this country—and that is the Communist Party. He said all Americans should join together to oppose this common menace.

The Eisenhower administration, he said, made a constructive record of achievement for all the American people.

A special effort is being made this year to have the boards of directors and executive secretaries of the nine Red Feather agencies in attendance.

Industrial managers and labor representatives are being invited to the dinner, and it is being suggested they make table reservations.

Ort points out that the kickoff affair will be an opportunity in the community when everyone can meet together in a common interest.

Business executives, union representatives, firm chairmen, and the entire volunteer sales organization are urged to attend and lend their support to assure a successful meeting.

Persons seeking reservations may do so by telephoning the Community Chest Drive office, PA 2-3900 by 5 p. m.

Jury Awards $1,833 In Condemnation

A Garrett County resident was awarded $1,833 plus interest yesterday afternoon following an all-day jury trial in a land condemnation suit heard in the Circuit Court of that county.

Back in 1951 the State Roads Commission offered $450 to Leo Fredlock Shenk for a piece of land situated on State Route 219.

According to testimony heard by the jury yesterday the SRC took about one and eight-tenths acres of land owned by Shenk.

Water rights to a spring on adjoining property were destroyed. Yesterday morning the jury visited the scene, and during the afternoon were out about 30 minutes after hearing all the testimony in the case presented before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr. of Westerport, attorney for Shenk, said the defendant was awarded $1,833 plus about $400 interest which accumulated over the five-year period.

Representing the SRC were Fred Puderbaugh, city and William Treacy of Oakland.

Bucklew Wins Disability Case

The Maryland State Industrial Accident Commission has awarded Nelson Bucklew of Oakland 75 per cent disability following a hearing held recently in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr. of Westerport, counsel for Bucklew, said the case was removed to this county from Garrett County, and that the defendant was injured while working at Pritts Garage in Oakland. Whitworth said that as a result of the permanent partial disability, Bucklew can receive up to a maximum of $7,500.

Strike Concluded At Swift Plant

Local 590, Amalgamated Food Employees Union, last night gave unanimous endorsement to a three-year contract with Swift & Co. to end a week-long strike.

A joint union and company announcement said the production workers affected by the strike will return to work immediately.

The agreement provides a 25-cent-an-hour increase over a three-year period, improved vacation, hospitalization and insurance plans, and overtime pay for more than eight hours in any one day, with double time for Sundays.

The company said it will resume full operations soon.

Grand Jury Will Continue Probe

The October grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court reconvenes at 9:15 a. m. today for its fourth day of investigations in a crime in the county.

Yesterday the grand jurors inspected the Court House, the County Jail and other county institutions.

John J. McMullen, this city, is chairman of the 23-member grand jury.
